

AABInternational

Why Corporate, Trade or Sustaining Organization Membership??

The Aviation Accreditation Board International (AABI) is widely recognized as the major change agent for improvement and innovation in the field of collegiate aviation education. Corporate, government and trade association members are a vital part of AABI and provide valuable contributions into the strategic planning processes for collegiate aviation education and individual member schools. The level of success of AABI is in no small measure due to the leadership and participation of our members. As a result of our collective efforts, AABI continues to not just grow, but thrive.

AABI corporate members receive valuable products and services that support corporate missions and goals in an increasingly competitive marketplace.

- ✓ Unmatched networking opportunities with management education leaders and experts from universities and colleges around the world
- ✓ Participation on peer review quality teams as part of AABI's prestigious global accreditation process
- ✓ Service on the AABI Board of Trustees, the highest policy-setting body of the association
- ✓ Access to association mailing lists and association's membership directory
- ✓ Prominent position of your company or organization's name and logo on the popular and widely viewed AABInternational Web site (<http://www.aabi.aero>)

Additionally, membership in AABI conveys the strong signal that your organization is committed to developing future aviation professionals for the global economy.